Of course, the boycott will not prohibit them from occupying seats in the opera house, but during the session of the senate they will not be allowed a voice in any proceedings which may come before the meeting. While the principal proposition to be discussed is of vital importance to the men, yet they will be compelled to keep still and trust their fate to the fair senators, who may be unfair in their final decision.

The main question to be debated is whether or not the women shall extend suffrage to the men. The married senators are in the majority, but there are a number of unmarried senators who will favor the extension of suffrage. When arrested by Officers Harrison and Deavey he was walking along Minnesota avenue filling his pocket with dried fruit, beans, coffee and corn from the display in front of the various grocery stores. He had certificates of membership in the Modern Woodmen of America and the A. O. U. W. at Red Oak, Ia. Other credentials were found in his pockets which would indicate that he is a thirty-third degree Mason.

POOLROOMS OPEN BUT CLOSE.

Chief Quarles Gave Their Proprietors a Second Notice to Suspend Business.

Chief of Police Quarles, of Kansas City, Kas., yesterday sent word to the pro-prictors of the two poolrooms on the Karsas side of the line that they would not be allowed to run until Judge Alden, of the district court, had rendered a decision in the Bibbs & Oldham case. However, both houses opened for business at I o'cleck in the afternoon and received bets on the first three races at Barksdale and the first race at New Orleans. Chief Quarles sent officers to each place with instructions to again notify the proprietors to close, and that if the houses were not closed within thirty minutes after the second order was given to raid both places. Thomas Carey, who is interested in the poolroom on Ewing street, told his men to close. Before this was done, however, some of the spectators caught sight of the approaching officers and a small stampede followed. At the Bibbs & Oldham establishment, in the Hanson opera house on Central avenue, a small crowd was playing the races when the authorities appeared. The house was soon closed and no further effort was made at either place to do business.

For several days the driver who delivers beer to a joint across the alley from the Hub restaurant noticed that a number of bettles disappeared from his wagon at this stop. Yesterday morning he caught Craig entering the kitchen with four or five bottles of beer. He followed him into the restaurant and demanded the return of the beer. The cook became very indignant, claiming that he had not stolen the beer. The driver continued to argue with him until Craig, with a large butcher knife, drove him out of the restaurant. Patrol Wagon Driver McMulian happened along at this juncture and placed Craig under arrest. He was taken to police hendquarters in his cooking attire with the butcher knife in his hand. When questioned at the station Craig said that he would carve any man who accused him of stealing. His talk did not please the pelice and he was ordered searched. Under his large white apron were found two bettles of beer. He gave a $10 cash bond and was released to appear for trial this morning.

INDEPENDENCE.

System Want Estimates of Cost by Engineers.

Advocates of the extension of the sewerage system are anxious to have the council appoint competent engineers to make to-pographical drawings and submit estimates of the cost of extending the mains. They believe this should be done before an election is called to vote upon a proposition to issue bonds for the purpose of extending the sewers.

Real Estate Values Advance.

Some persons would suppose that values of real estate have taken a decided slump since the days of the boom, but the Inde-pendence school board has discovered oth-erwise. Twenty-eight offers have been reerwise. Twenty-eight offers have been re-ceived from property owners who have property for sale to the school board for a building site. Most of the prices are con-sidered by the school board as very high, Aside from opening the bids the board has done nothing toward the selection of a site, but it expects to act soon.

A HOSPITAL DRILL. Interesting Maneuvers Performed by

Major J. N. Jackson and His Men at the Armory.

The most interesting of all army prac-tice is the drill of the hospital corps when the entire force is supposed to be in ac-tion during the progress of an imaginary hattle. This branch of the Third regiment, under the direction of Major J. N. Jackson, regimental surgeon, has been do-ing some hard work lately and has about reached that stage of excellence that is ing some hard work lately and has about reached that stage of excellence that is closs to perfection.

The corps is supplied with stretchers and possesses all the necessary tents, but is budly in need of an ambulance and a medicine chest, which the state is expected to furnish. The corps is composed of four officers and ifficen privates, all of whom take a great deal of interest in their work.

There was a drill by the corps at the armony last night and the practice of carrying from the field the wounded soldiers and transporting the sick and maimed from the battleground to the hospital was gone through with in a way that showed evidences of a systematic training. In the hospital, Surgeon Jackson and his assistants were busy bandaging up wounded heads and amputating shattered limbs. The drill was so serious that the visitors in the galleries shuddered in sympathy for the individuals who were being used in lieu of wounded soldiers.

NEXT LARGEST DIAMOND IN COUN-TRY SOLD TO MRS. WALLACE.

Weighs Twenty-four Carata and I Surpassed in Size Only by the Famous Tiffany Stone-Brief Sketch of Its Owner.

From the Chicago Inter Ocean, Mrs. Celia Waliace has added to her mag officent collection of fewels the second largest diamond in the United States. Passessor of numberless priceless gems, prooches, pins, rings, and tiaras, Mrs. Wallace seized the opportunity to gain possesbeauty and intrinsic value by the famous

For some time the gem has reposed in to whom it was intrusted by the agent of fermer governor of Wisconsin, who de sired that it be turned into cash at once, A price of $23,000 was fixed on as represent ing its value. Two or three weeks clapsed ing its value. Two or three weeks clapsed before any one made an offer for the stone that even approximated its worth; on Sat-urday last Mrs. Wallace entered the shop, and as is her custom, summoned the propri-etor to attend her wants. After being shown various less princely gems, the big diamond was brought out for her inspec-tion.

seur in precious stones, Mrs. Wallace rec-ognized the worth of the jewel. Almost instintly upon taking the stone in her hand she launched into an inquiry as to it price. On being told that it was held a $25,000, she examined it more closely, and after some moments of thought, she offer ed $2,000, saying that was her estimate o ed $5.000, saying that was her estimate of its value. Realizing that a purchaser was found for the diamond, the proprietor called in the owner's agent. A hasty conference ensued, the jeweler insisting that it would bring no more, and the agent replying that his instructions forbade his parting with his trust for less than the price asked. Mrs. Wallace listened with apparent indifference to the consultation, trying the effect of the light on the gem; when the ultimatum of the agent was pronounced, she told him she would split the difference with him. That settled the transaction: the bargain was struck, a check was filled out, and the second largest diamond in this country was the property of Mrs. Wallace.

Less than fifteen minutes was required to consummate the sale of this magnificent his of carbon, something unprecedented in diamond selling, which usually requires hours and even days to arrive at a satisfactory and even days to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion.

Mrs. Wallace's latest acquisition is in the shape known to jewelers as the "table cut." familiar to lovers of precious stones as the most common form, as well as the best to show off the light producing powers of the stone. It is twenty-four carats and a fraction in weight, without the slightest flaw.

When offered for sale the stone was set when offered for sale the stone was set a large, old-fushioned.

Since then Mrs. Wallace has given her time solely to the management of her business affairs and to works of charity. She was a great admirer of David Swing, and at his death contributed $0,000, as a nu-cleus, for a permanent fund to keep up the work of the Central church. The model-school for boys, which shelters and edu-cates 500 street urcliffer a year at Glendale, 111. is one of her most notable public do-

All the year round Mrs. Wallace maintains a luxurious suite of rooms at the Auditorium. At St. Augustine, Fla., she has a winter home, and her cottage at Lake Geneva is one of the most unique summer houses at that resort. It was the Idaho building at the world's fair, and was built from logs out on the Snake river. Attracted by the quaint features of the building. Mrs. Waliace bought it at the ciese of the fair. It was taken apart and removed to its present site, and rebuilt after the original plans. Another famous world's fair exhibit purchased by her was the Tiffany chapel, a magnificent production of marble, stained glass, fine gilt, and tepaz. This she presented to Bishop Potter for his new cathedral in New York, with the provision that it be used as a mortuary chapel for herself and son.

Mrs. Wallace is known to her friends as one of the most charitable of women; she has made many silent and unostentatious hequests. To those who do not know her intimately she appears eccentric. Her rooms at the Auditorium are protected by three sets of locks, which fact has set many of the hotel gossips to wondering. To Mrs. Wallace's friends the reason for her precautions is plain; she is the owner of countless costly gowns and wraps, and her jewels are worth a large fortune. On one occasion a few years ago she bought $100,000 worth of diamonds in one lot, partly because she liked the stones, and partly because they were cheap. All these valuables are kept in her rooms, and her precautions against the temptation of ther have made many unknowingly call her queer.

During the grand opera season two years ago Mrs. Wallace appeared at the Auditorium wearing a lace gown worth $20,000 rium wearing a lace gown worth $30,000 and $50,000 worth of diamonds. The laces were rare antique specimens, bought at fabulous prices during her European travels. There had been much talk about the costly gowns to be worn by Chicago society women on the occasion. It was an all-star cast performance, and Mrs. Walkace decided to outdo them all. She did, and society still remembers it.

Mrs. Walkace's offer to adopt and educate Miss Clsneros at the time of her visit to Chicago created considerable discussion. She said at the time: "I have seen little of the girl, but she has impressed me as being of a sweet, lovable disposition; just the kind of a young woman I would like to claim as a daughter."

B. & O. REORGANIZATION.

Bill Intiroduced in Maryland Legislature to Provide for It When

Annapolis, Md., March 2.-Delegate John Wirt introduced into the house of delegates to-day a bill to provide for the com-plete reorganization of the Baltimore & gates to-day a bill to provide for the complete reorganization of the Baltimore & Ohlo Railroad Company. The incorporators named in the bill are: Messrs, Louis Fitzgerald, Henry Budse, Eugene Delano and E. R. Bacon, of New York; George H. Earl, Jr., of Philadelphia: Alexander Brown, John Gill, W. F. Frick, Edwin Warfield, James Bond, J. McKenny White and Thomas J. Hayward, of Baltimore.

It is explained that there is no immediate prospect of a reorganization of the road and that the bill introduced to-day is solely for the purpose of putting the incorporators in a position to carry out their plans should they mature during the two years which must intervene before another session of the legislature will be held. It is also asserted that the bill is a move on the part of the New York reorganization committee to forestall any action the Baltimore committee, having the same purpose in view, may attempt. President and co-Receiver Cowen is not in the city and no one else connected with the road would discuss the matter.

Fifteen Hundred New Books Bough Fifteen hundred volumes of assorted works, bought from the Sheidley fund, were received at the public library yesterday and will be placed upon the shelves for circulation as soon as they can be unpacked and assorted. The Sheidley fund is being used judiciously by the committee which has its expenditure in charge, and the usefulness of the library is being materially increased by the frequent additions of books from this source.

DRANK TO DROWN SORROWS.

Edward H. Broad Found Dead in His Place of Business-Due to Alcoholism.

Edward H. Broad, aged 47, proprietor of the Kansas City Renovating Company, was found dead at his place of husiness, 1294 East Eighteenth street, yesterday afternoon at I o'clock. Broad had lived in Kansas City for ten years. He was a memernoon at 1 o'clock. Broad had lived in Kansas City for Ien years. He was a member of Burns & Broad, carpet dyers, for many years. He was at one time considered well-to-do, owning several pieces of property on Eighteenth street, and eight years ago bought out Burns' interest in the concern. For the past three years his business had been falling off. His property was mortgaged and sold piece by piece. Several weeks ago he was notified that he would be forced to vacate his place of business for non-payment of rent. Since then he had been drinking heavily. He was in the habit of taking morphine, He was under the influence of fluor. He was very despondent and said that B. Berry, who held a mortgage on his place intended to close him out Wednesday.

Deputy Coroner Wheeler stated yesterday that death had evidently been due to alcoholism. Broad was unmarried.

The remains were removed to Carroll's undertaking rooms. A brother, D. R. Broad, will arrive from Chicago to-day to take charge of the body.

THINK IT'S A GOOD CAPTURE. John Cronin, Alias Jim Ryan, Alias John Watts, Gives Unsatisfact-

ory Account of Himself. The police are of the opinion that in the man arrested by Officers Halvey and Ryan at Nineteenth street and Tracy avenue, early yesterday morning, they have made a good capture. The man has given three different names to the police—John Cronin, Jim Ryan and John Watts. Vesterday morning he was taken before Chief Hayes and Inspector Halpin and to them he told a very disconnected story of himself. He declared the two big revolvers found on him had been given to him by his father thirty-five years ago, and that he only carried them when traveling, but the guns are of a new pattern. He could not explain why he attempted to run when the officers found him or what he was doing in that part of town. Chief Hayes said he was confident that the fellow was a crook and had served time. Cronin denied yesterday that he knew anything about Kennedy, arrested for train robbing and the marder of Miss Schumacher, but newspaper clippings were found on him referring to kennedy, rec. centure. The man has given three different macher, but newspaper clippings were found on him referring to Kennedy's record. His picture was taken yesterday for the rogues gallery. The police will look up his record at Pueblo, Col., whence he claims to have come when he arrived here Monday night. He is being held now on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

HOW HE PAID HIS BOARD BILL. ing a Woman's Gold Watch

From His Creditor. Attorney Henry A. Yonge, who lives at 1240 Penn street, had a tale to tell to the police last night. Early last fall a young man giving the name of C. G. Jones, of good appearance and pleasing address applied at Mr. Youge's home for room and board. He explained that he had no money but expected to get work soon. Mr. Yonge and has family took compassion on the young man and took him into their home, making him as much a member of the fam-ily as possible. Last night Mr. Yonge held a consultation with the detective depart-ment. He said the young man was not to a consultation with the detective department. He said the young man was not to be found. He was not grieving as a father might for his own son, nor was he complaining overmuch that the young man had failed to secure work and had consequently partaken of the hospitality of his home during the long winter months with simply worded promises to pay the bills. In taking his departure, Mr. Yonge explained to the detectives, he had also taken a woman's solid gold watch. He had been given the watch to take 1s a Jeweler's to have mended. Detectives McAmany and Sanderson were put to work on the case.
